Coverage Questions

How are ground and air ambulance claims denied?

Due to the nature of modern health insurance, there's an almost 80% chance that you could be responsible for a large portion of your emergency transportation bill.¹ Even if health insurance covers part of your bill, there are many scenarios where they may not cover the total cost. The ambulance that picks you up may be out-of-network, the reason for your trip may not be deemed a medical necessity or you might still have to meet your health insurance deductible.

Why would an ambulance be out-of-network?

There are over 27,000 ambulance companies operating in the United States.² Some companies are run by cities and states, others are run by local or national companies. Many insurance plans only cover in-network ambulance companies. Even if you're heading to an in-network hospital, the ambulance itself could be out-of-network and leave you with a "balance bill". MASA MTS offers coverage for ALL ambulance companies operating within the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii and while traveling in Canada.

What is medical necessity?

Medical necessity is established when any other transportation method (besides an ambulance) would endanger the patient's life. For example, let's say you're experiencing symptoms associated with a heart attack and end up taking an ambulance to the hospital. If your health insurance decides that the cause of your symptoms (perhaps indigestion, heartburn, or a panic attack) doesn't meet their requirements for an ambulance, they could deny your claim and potentially leave you on the hook for thousands of dollars.

Which ambulance company can I use?

MASA MTS works hand-in-hand with the benefits health plan administrators and transport companies to ensure you and your family have no out-of-pocket costs no matter which provider completes the ambulance transport within the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii and while traveling in Canada. Additionally, our coverage applies regardless of network. In the event of an emergency, simply call 911 and get to the hospital. When you receive the bill from the ambulance company, just submit it to us.

Will MASA MTS pay my copay or deductible?

Yes! Our goal is to leave you with complete peace of mind. We will cover all copays, even if you haven't met your deductible.
