

Why you should consider Critical Illness Insurance

Serious illnesses are more common than you think. A stroke occurs every 40 seconds, and 4 in 10 people will be diagnosed with cancer at some point in their lives.† Many people are not financially prepared for the unexpected costs of a serious illness. Have you considered the following?*

- Even a good medical plan can leave you with out-of-pocket expenses.‡ The financial impact of a critical illness is often surprising. From deductibles and co-pays to additional everyday expenses, as well as lost salary from time off from work, it may push you off track financially.
- Critical Illness Insurance pays regardless of what your medical plan may cover. A critical illness plan works to complement your medical coverage. There's no coordination of benefits with other coverages, so you get the full benefit provided by your plan.
- You get a lump sum payment to use however you like—for medical deductibles, co-pays, or non-covered services. You can even use it for everyday expenses, like babysitters and take-out food, making your recovery a little easier.
- It's quick and easy to use. We're ready, however you want to work with us. You can submit claims online, by fax, over the phone, or mail.

Monthly employee coverage[§] may cost less than the allowance for a 10-year-old.*
